The Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation today awarded Dan Greenberg and Barbara Crook with the Rabbi Reuven P. Bulka Award.

The prestigious award is given to leaders in our community - recognizing their dedication to cancer survivorship in Eastern Ontario.

"Dan and Barbara are truly important people to our community," remarked Linda Eagen, president and CEO of the Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation. "They lead through example generously donating $11 million to cancer care in this region. The work they do is inspiring."

The Rabbi Reuven P. Bulka awards were first established in 2005 in celebration of the man, whose inspiring leadership and unselfish dedication to this community has so significantly improved the lives of cancer patients and their families. Past recipients of the Rabbi Reuven Bulka Award include: Dalton McGuinty, Peter Charbonneau, Dr. John Bell, Dr. Hartley Stern, Steve Madely and Chuck Merovitz.

The Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation is dedicated to helping people survive cancer. We support and work with those who understand survivorship best: survivors themselves. Working together we are helping more cancer patients in Eastern Ontario become cancer survivors, and changing what it means to be diagnosed with cancer — not only for patients, but also for their families and friends.
